

Grey Mountain Partners Adds Investment Professionals

BOULDER, Colorado — Paul Donofrio, Chris Good, Josh Sartisky and Travis Steele have joined Grey Mountain Partners as Associates. Before Grey Mountain, Paul was an investment banker in the Global Power & Renewable Energy Group at UBS in New York, where he advised on mergers and acquisitions and corporate finance transactions. Chris most recently worked as a financial institutions investment banking analyst for Citigroup in New York. Prior to joining Grey Mountain, Josh was a mergers and acquisition analyst for SunTrust Robinson Humphrey in Atlanta. Travis Steele joins Grey Mountain from RBC Capital Markets' New York office, where he focused on merger and acquisition and restructuring advisory services.

Grey Mountain Partners acquires majority interests in North American-based businesses and is focused on the following ownership structures / transaction types: family-held businesses, entrepreneur-backed companies, growth-oriented recapitalizations, corporate carve-outs, management buyouts, financial restructurings, operational turnarounds, take-privates and other difficult or challenged situations, even those involving management transitions. The firm has approximately $700 million of assets under management and is currently investing from its third fund, which was raised in 2013.
